“CHAMPAGNE”

The Champagne region in northeastern France is renowned for its world-class sparkling wine. Its cool climate and chalky soils create ideal conditions for grape growing. The area is divided into four main subregions, each adding unique qualities to the wine. Strict rules ensure only wines from this region can be called Champagne. It remains a global symbol of celebration and refinement.

“CHARDONNAY”

A naturally neutral, green-skinned grape that takes its cues from where and how it is grown—one reason it thrives everywhere from Burgundy to California. Its early budding nature captures terroir nuances, while its sturdy skins make it equally happy in oak barrels or steel tanks.

“SAUVIGNON BLANC”

*A high-aroma, vigorous vine that buds late and ripens early, locking in zesty acidity.
Its distinctive green, herbal tones come from naturally occurring methoxypyrazines concentrated in the grape skins.*

“GRÜNER VELTLINER”

Austria's signature white, distinguishable by its large bunches and slightly russeted berries. Grüner's hallmark white-pepper note comes from a natural compound in its skins, while its sturdy vines thrive on the poor, rocky soils of the Danube corridor.

“PINOT NOIR”

A delicate, tightly clustered grape with thin skins and low phenolic content, making it prone to rot and demanding in the vineyard. Yet these same traits yield wines of unparalleled finesse, translating subtle soil and climate differences like few other varieties.

“NEBBIOLO & BARBERA D’ALBA”

Nebbiolo known for its thin-skinned, tannin-rich red ripens late and shows a pale color despite its power. High in acidity and rich in phenolics, Nebbiolo reveals haunting aromas of rose and tar, and needs well-drained calcareous soils to shine.

Barbera d’Alba is known for its deeply pigmented juice and low tannin content. Barbera boasts naturally high acidity that keeps it lively even in warm vintages. The vine is adaptable but finds its finest expression on the clay-limestone slopes of Alba.

“SANGIOVESE”

Sangiovese is medium-bodied with thin skins, offering naturally high acidity and moderate tannins. Sensitive to site and clone, it thrives in sun-drenched hillsides where it develops notes of sour cherry, herbs, and earth. Its name likely comes from “sanguis Jovis” – the blood of Jupiter.
